Beetle's story

On July 10, 2019, the Beetle, the iconic car form of Germany's Volkswagen, officially ceased production in Mexico, marking the 81-year history of this classic car that was once popular around the world, and marking the beginning of the classic car's official transition into the annals of automotive history. The Volkswagen Beetle had three generations of model redesigns and sold more than 25 million cars around the globe after successfully completing its initial test in 1936 and coming into production the following year.

Beetle's story

- Volkswagen made the announcement in 2018 that the model would be officially terminated when the final batch of 5,961 Beetles were manufactured, and the company stated that the final Beetle to roll off the assembly line would be displayed in the museum belonging to the Volkswagen brand.

- The Volkswagen Beetle is meant to be the most iconic and beloved model across all of Volkswagen's product lines. It is also considered to be a genuine automotive icon. It makes an appearance in the lives of a lot of people, and over the course of spending years and years together, it evolves into a requirement for day-to-day routines as well as an exclusive memory for whoever owns it.

Beetle's story

There is a film titled "Beetle Annie" that portrays the story of an elderly woman in the United States and her relationship with her Volkswagen Beetle. Katherine, an elderly resident of the United States, bestowed the name Annie upon her pet beetle and called her Annie. One day in 1966, Annie made her way into Catherine's life, and ever since then, this one person and this one car have been there for Catherine through many significant and unforgettable occasions in her life.

BEETLE'S STORY

- 50 years have passed, and throughout that time, Catherine has seen many people come and go from her life, but Annie is the only one who has stayed.

- Because the Volkswagen Beetle was not only an important companion in Catherine's life but also a car of memories for many other people, the film received a lot of response once it was broadcast. This is because the Beetle was not only an important companion in Catherine's life but also a car of memories for other people. In spite of the fact that production of the Volkswagen Beetle was terminated, the imprints it made on people's minds will forever remain priceless and incomparable. When thinking about the past, a lot of individuals have found reflections of themselves in this adorable tiny car, and even if they can't locate themselves, there are memories accumulated about their parents that they may reflect on instead.
